

One of the principles at Müller & Borggräfe is to treat with particular attention the wishes and objectives of our clients.

Your mission is the focus of this attention.

Reliability and quality awareness coupled with trusting, fair cooperation was the company's maxim upon its establishment back in 1885.

We focus squarely on sensitive, discriminating markets for whose requirements these attributes are essential.

In this prospectus, we show you our facilities and product examples in the overview. Maybe we can also inspire you?

*Let's talk about it!
Together, we reach your objectives!*

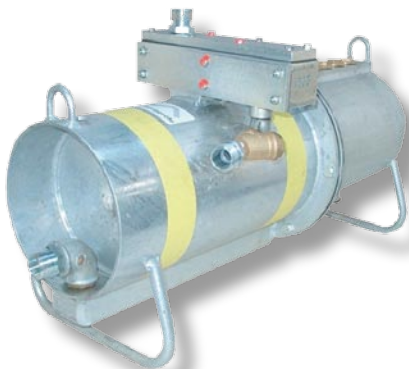

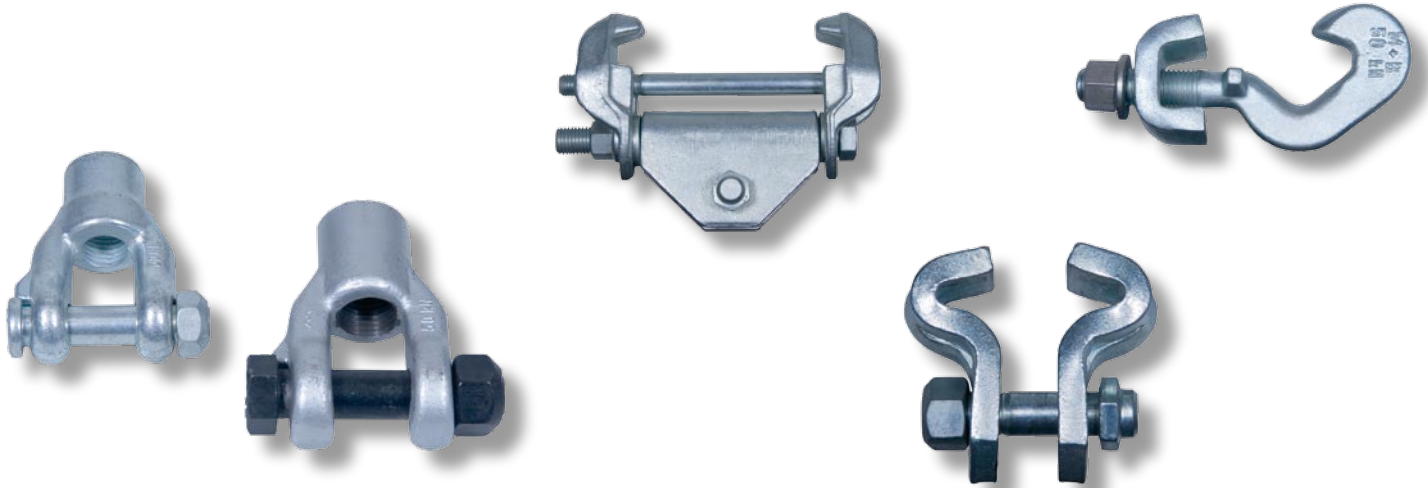

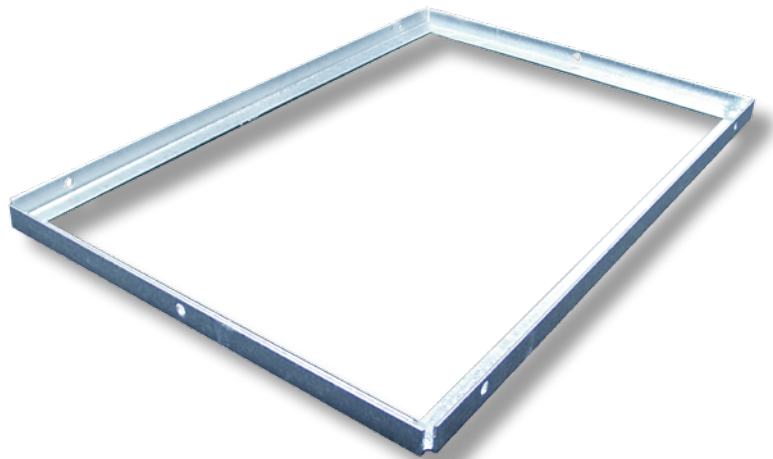

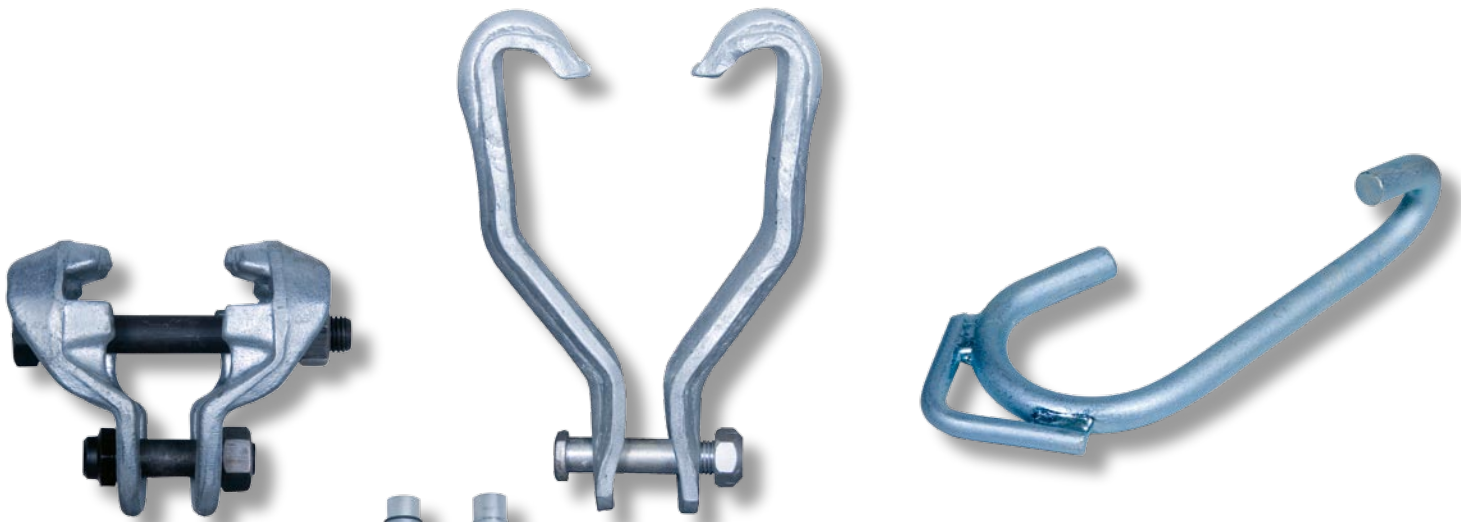

Benefit from our decades of experience in the development and production of specific items for complicated applications under difficult conditions.

At our company, traditional craftsmanship and modern technologies are combined in order to create solutions for you. The main emphases are on the joint development, design and production of pressings, metal stampings, bent parts, welding and steel construction components, as well as assemblies.

Cold working, stamping technology

Our hydraulic and eccentric presses combined with ultra-modern coil systems work extremely economically, and can certainly stand up to the competition.

Our own tool construction helps to realise the best possible solution for your requirements.

Hot working

We offer you a rational alternative to the classic forging method.

Our furnaces and hot presses enable us to produce safety-relevant components in tried-and-tested quality.

Welding technology and structural steel engineering

As a specialist welding company, we have been producing demanding constructions at a consistently high level for years.

Direct contact with our clients and regular certification enable us to achieve both flexibility and quality.
